City to Be Asked to Vote Continuance for Ten Mill Levy Here

Because the school enrollemnt has increased by leaps and bounds has increased by leaps and bounds each year showing an increase of from a thousand to two thousand in the school enumeration of Tulsa, the board of education is going to face a deficit, in spite of rigid economy a statement issued yesterday from Central High school office declared. Attempts to meet this deficit by the sale of lends authorized list spring the statement continues have failed the statement continues, have failed because of inability to sell the bonds the statement continues, have failed because of inability to sell the bonds under present market conditions.

Therefore Tules citizens will be asked to assure a continuation of a nine-month school term in the city by voting, February 21, for a continuance of the prosent 10-mill excess levy for school purposes.

The 10-mill levy, it was stated, does not mean an increase in tax rate over the amount paid this year, but complying with the legal forms necessary to collect the same rate. The revenue from a five-mill levy which is all that can be collected without the sanction of the voters at a special election, would finance the city schools for only three months, and an additional 10-mill levy would be necessary for the present time-month term.
